USE YOUR INFLUENCE

The Arizona Anti-Joint Statehood League has sounded a note of warning and says that Arizona is still in danger of being tied to New Mexico by that corrupt and venal judge, Beveridge of Indiana. He is leaving no stone unturned and does not hesitate to make any false statement at any time or place that will give color to his claims.

The League suggests that every resident of Arizona having influential friends in northern and eastern states send their names to President J. S. Adams, at Phoenix, who will urge their congressional delegations to spare us this injustice. The League will furnish them all the literature necessary on the question and an accurate statement of the facts in the case. Send your names in at once as no time is to be lost. It would also be a wise plan to write a personal letter to any congressman or senator with whom you are acquainted and urge their attention to the literature sent by the League's officers.

You cannot do too much nor act too quickly.

The SILVER BELT will now forward the ballots polled last summer and put them where they will count.

Let it snow protests from Arizona!

GLOBE TO THE FRONT

This city has probably entertained more capitalists and mining experts of repute during the past two weeks than in any previous period of its history. The air is thick with rumors as to large deals now in contemplation, the fruition of which would treble the population, output and business of the Globe district within a comparatively short time. Of course, these rumors are denied in many cases, but so vigorous and emphatic are the denials that they furnish the best possible evidence that there is "something in the wind."

The great advertisement by the united action of the Globe delegates to the Mining Congress in El Paso is destined to attract widespread attention to the mineral resources of this unequalled district—in quarters never before reached. There is no limit to the possibilities if Globe's people will unite in systematic action to acquaint the world with our unparalleled resources. Another opportunity now confronts us at the territorial fair and should be made the most of.

Let Globe outshine all other districts in the permanent exhibit on the Fair grounds as she did at El Paso and the beneficial effect will be broad and lasting.

THE CONVENTION CITY

Again has El Paso proved herself to be the premier hostess of the great southwest. The American Mining Congress was entertained as it never has been at any previous session, and nobody but a chronic kicker could find a pin-point on which to rest a momentary growl—and that kind don't belong in a convention anyhow. Not only did the Pass City people cheerfully contribute the funds necessary to furnish numerous unique and enjoyable attractions, but they gave their time and personal efforts to make their guests feel perfectly at home. Self-appointed committees of one and two drove and autoted the delegates to all points of interest and the Chamber of Commerce showed what an organization can accomplish when the dominant spirit is harmonious. Great is El Paso and greater will she grow in the esteem of all who come in contact with her enterprising and unselfish citizens. That no other city in the southwest can overtake El Paso in growth and commercial enterprises as well as manufacturing industries is a foregone conclusion. Globe is glad to have such a market to buy and sell in and our general interests have been more closely united by the recent visits of Globe people to the convention city.

COPPER IS KING

The sustained price of copper in the markets of the world has been a potent factor in transferring speculation from railroad shares to the copper issues and within the week new prices have been made for many of the favorites. There seems to be no danger that copper will decline in the near future for the demand keeps pace with the increased output, and is broadening every day. The big mining and smelting companies are turning out greater quantities of the metal than ever before, many of them have reduced the cost of production and consequently their profits are on bona fide lines. The demand for good prospects was never so keen as at the present time and the big corporations are buyers of "sure things" at prices which recompense the prospector and developer for their labors and outlay. While all districts are active, none is more so than Globe and if present indications materialize this will undoubtedly become the premier district of the southwest.

'TWOULD BE AN OUTRAGE

There can be no question in the mind of anyone who is acquainted with the present conditions of Arizona and its people that the territory is eminently fitted to assume the responsibilities of separate statehood. On this point the members of the congressional delegation which visited the Territory last summer were unanimously agreed. They canvassed the situation thoroughly in all its aspects—social, political, industrial and territorial. They could not have arrived honestly at any other conclusion.

But the main point, after all is this: Why should an enlightened people who have been for a long term of years struggling to build themselves up to a fit condition for assuming the self-governing responsibilities of statehood, be compelled when they have reached that stage of development, to lose their political identity by being merged, against their desire, into another organism, with which they have no affinity and the interests of whose people are not in common with their own? Such an act would be an outrage which the preservation of senatorial equilibrium, the excuse advanced for proposing to carry it out, cannot justify.

Fair dealing with the territory demands that it shall be admitted separately to statehood. Justice cannot be done to it otherwise.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Railroad improvements just inaugurated at and near Fort Thomas and large purchases of land by the G. V. G. & N. people indicate that this town will be a division point when the new line to Phoenix is completed. The former military post is already experiencing a marked revival in business.
